CIRCULAR TO THE INDUSTRY

Re: New NBCRFLI National Secretary: Mr Musa Ndlovu

We have the pleasure of introducing you to our new National Secretary, Mr Musa Ndlovu, who began his new role in September 2014.

Mr Ndlovu has a wealth of previous experience from working in government and parastatal organisations in both a legal and executive management capacity. He has a firm grasp of the local business environment, including the Road Freight and Logistics Industry, and an in-depth understanding of South Africa's intricate socio-political and economic environments. His strong understanding of the South African economic, political and labour fields will be of tremendous value in the forthcoming wage negotiations, which we have confidence will be concluded successfully in the best interests of both parties involved.

Mr Ndlovu holds a Bproc and LLB Degree from the University of Natal (Howard College), a Management Advancement Programme (MAP) with Wits Business School in 2012, as well as an Executive Excellence Leadership Programme in 2014 with the Gordon Institute of Business Science (GIBS). He was admitted as an Attorney in 2001 and obtained his Right of Appearance in the High Court of South Africa in 2002.

"I'm honored and grateful for the opportunity to lead this organisation with its dedicated team, I will always act impartially, with respect and integrity, and in the best interest of the NBCRFLI" says Mr Ndlovu. "The NBCRFLI delivers exceptional and innovative services to the road freight and logistics industry, making a difference in the lives of many. Our task is to ensure that we constantly service our industry with excellence. Therefore, we will continue to offer all our stakeholders an unwavering commitment to delivery and attention to detail, and a dedication to appropriately and correctly deliver on their statutory, constitutional and legal requirements."

We are most fortunate to have a leader of great calibre at the helm of the NBCRFLI and wish Mr Ndlovu every success as he continues to steer the Council to its next level of accomplishments.

Yours Faithfully
